Karen Gimnig is a team builder, motivational speaker and relationship coach. Her passion is to help you achieve your goals for collaboration and community culture. She believes that our need for connection with the people around us guides us toward effective relationships. As an Imago Facilitator, Karen uses the theory and practice of Imago Relationships to guide teams and communities through the complexity of working together. She helps groups and individuals identify root causes of challenges and then walks beside them offering gentle support as they seek solutions.

Karen's upcoming book, The Cooperative Culture Handbook, illuminates 26 keys for transforming culture and shares exercises for facilitating the development of these skills.
